

Indoor Plants to Keep Air Clean

Just like Mr. Frog cleared the smog, you can keep the air clean inside your home with these kid-friendly indoor plants! Here's a list of plants that help clean the air, with simple care tips for families!

Spider Plant: This plant has long, spidery leaves that look like they're dancing! It's super easy to care for and cleans the air by removing yucky stuff like dust. Just give it a little water and some sunlight.

Peace Lily: With pretty white flowers, this plant is like a mini garden inside! It helps clean the air and loves shady spots, but be careful—it's not safe for pets to eat, so keep it up high.

Snake Plant: This plant has tall, straight leaves that look like green swords! It's tough and can clean the air even at night, making it perfect for bedrooms. It only needs water every few weeks.

Aloe Vera: This spiky plant is great for cleaning the air and can even help with little boo-boos—its gel soothes burns! It loves sunny spots and doesn't need much water.

Boston Fern: With fluffy, feathery leaves, this plant looks like a mini jungle! It cleans the air and loves a bit of mist and shade, just like a forest friend of Apple Tree.

[Checkout NASA's Clean Air Study for more air purifying plants!]

